For those students who have gone beyond Standard 6/Form 3, the proportion of males to females is much higher in the 21-25 age bracket, and slightly higher in 16-20 age group. Within the youngest group, the females have surpassed the males.

A somewhat similar situation exists for persons who completed Standards 4 to 6, although the gap between male and female is not as great. In this case, it is in the 31-35 age group that males continue to surpass females in terms of the proportion completing this level.

For those who completed Standards 1 to 3, the male proportion becomes systematically greater in the 41-45 age bracket, while the high percentage of females in the 21 to 40 age group indicates that many more women were leaving school at a lower level than males.

Finally, the "no education" category indicates that the percentage of women here increases rapidly over the percentage of men within and after the 31-35 age bracket.

In short, in the past, women were systematically receiving less education than men.

Despite variations, the extended families form 13.0% of the total, and compound families form 7.7% of the total.
